

The authors have addressed the two main concerns raised in the original manuscript. They have done a particularly good job in making it more accessible to the scientific community through the addition of less technical elements to the manuscript.

I have only a very minor revision to suggest. There are a number of instances where sentences should be edited for clarity due to grammatical errors. A few examples include:

- P21 L9: ‘...that the main relief features [are] strongly stressed...’
- P21 L16-18: ‘The first class... exponential time’. Restructure this sentence.
- P22 L23: ‘It [is] thus a [totally] different approach...’
- P25 L9: ‘Based on these observations, and [considering the] requirements of the CVT...’