

Dear Dr. Yool,

We are pleased to hear that the manuscript is suitable for publication, pending a minor correction. We have adjusted the colour scheme in Figure 1 as requested, to more clearly delineate areas of increasing and decreasing total consumer biomass. In addition, we have taken the opportunity to make two more minor changes for consistency. Firstly, we have also changed this map panel (Fig 1C) from an ensemble mean with fishing imposed to one without fishing imposed (just climate effects), to make consistent with panels A and B. Furthermore, we have reversed the colour scheme on Figure S2, so that a decline in NPP is coloured red (rather than an increase); thus what are typically/generally considered 'worsening' conditions (increasing SST, decreasing NPP, decreasing total consumer biomass) are always coloured red.

Sincerely,

Derek Tittensor, on behalf of all co-authors.
