Dear Dr Unterstrasser,

Many thanks for looking at my revised paper and for requesting minor changes.

Please find the revised version of my paper with the changes made.

As well as adding the section on code availability (including references to the code and data via Zenodo), I have added a section of conflict of interest, plus I have corrected some minor errors to the paper. These concern a missing term in one of the balance equations. The corrections made have no impact on the numerical results as the balance equation in question was not used in the numerical experiments.

The original changes to the manuscript remain in blue text, and the more recent changes appear in red text for your convenience.

Many thanks again for considering my paper.

Yours sincerely,

Ross Bannister
