As the topical editor of this manuscript, I do not encourage authors to submit the revision of this manuscript. Instead, I do recommend authors to decline this submission, and I encourage authors to resubmit it to the GMD if authors substantially improve the scientific significance of this study.

This recommendation is based on the reviewer’s evaluation of the scientific significance of the manuscript and the negative comments in their review report. Normally, formal editorial recommendations or decisions are made after the authors have responded to all comments, or if they ask for editorial advice before responding. However, I strongly believed that the second referee would be unlikely to change the evaluation and would further delay the manuscript.

Thank you for submitting your manuscript to GMD, and I hope you will consider submitting future work to GMD.

Sincerely yours, Hisashi SATO, Topical editor of the GMD
