

Thanks again for the suggestions and encouragement!

Please make sure that the units are not in italics. Use "`\unit{}`".

Done.

The abstract refers to the "German radar composite". I am not sure if everyone knows what this is. It seems that this term is indeed ambiguous (for example this is not what we mean: <http://okfirst.mesonet.org/train/nids/CREF.html>). It has been replaced by "mosaic", which should give everyone an intuitive idea.

l23: single -> few?

You probably meant line 32, we replaced "single" by "a few".

Could you add a reference for the Tukey window?

Done.

In English language there is a difference between "which" and "that" many are not aware of. https://www.diffen.com/difference/That_vs_Which. E.g. "which" in lines 223 and 228 should be "that". This list is probably not complete.

Instances of "which" and "that" throughout the manuscript have been checked and corrected to the best of my understanding.
