

Dear Editor,

As per the feedback for this next revision, we have made the table captions and text more legible. In particular, we did the following:

- Increased the font sizes of the text within each table.
- Made sure the table and figure captions were not overlapping one another.
- Decreased the width of some columns in some of the tables, so the text was more legible.
- Moved the tables and figures to the end of the manuscript so that each table and figure has its own page. This allowed us to more easily incorporate the captions, tables, and figures for the manuscript, rather than trying to grapple with formatting that would place the figures/tables within the body of the manuscript.
- For the “text” document only (not the updated manuscript PDF), we have changed the section with the tables to a landscape layout, instead of portrait. This allowed us to include the full content of each table while ensuring they were completely visible and legible.

We appreciate your consideration of our manuscript submission to GMD.

Thank you,
Christopher Holder
